

Online Psychology (Conversion) MSc

Pearl Lamptey, Academic Tutor: Our online Psychology Conversion MSC will allow you to gain in depth master's level knowledge without a need for you to have previously studied psychology.

Dr Marta Wesierska, Lecturer in Psychology: On the course, students learn both the classic psychological theories like areas of developmental or cognitive psychology, but they also get to delve into more specialist topics like mental health or clinical or health psychology.

You get to conduct your very own research project which you design from the very start with the help of our academic tutors of course.

Pearl Lamptey, Academic Tutor: A British Psychological Society accredited course is highly respected by employers and demonstrates that this course has met rigorous criteria and quality standards.

It's also a prerequisite for obtaining the graduate basis for chartered membership with the British Psychological Society and this is the first step towards becoming a psychologist.

Dr Marta Wesierska, Lecturer in Psychology: You'll learn from the same academic staff that teaches on campus and so you receive the same high standards of academic excellence that the University of Huddersfield is known for.

Anthony Yau, Academic Tutor: This course is 100% online, it means it is super flexible. You can take your own pace to arrange your study to manage your time so that you can balance the demands between your work, family and other engagement and this part time study.

Dr Marta Wesierska, Lecturer in Psychology: Many of our students have progressed onto a great number of different careers in psychology, so fields like occupational psychology or clinical counselling, forensics or sports psychology as well as mental health.

Some of our students don't necessarily become psychologists, but they use what they've learned on the course in other fields within business or marketing or education.

Pearl Lamptey, Academic Tutor: Our distant learning students can access the same student support services that are available on campus, such as regular assignment feedback from tutors, academic skills support, access to a personal academic tutor, support from our computing and library services, our well-being and disability services, as well as careers advice from our Careers and Employability service.

Dr Marta Wesierska, Lecturer in Psychology: Apply now for Psychology Conversion, MSc online at the University of Huddersfield.